

Robert L. Rist

Robert Rist is Co-Founder of Ohio Airships Inc., a privately held corporation currently headquartered in Toledo, Ohio (USA). Established in 1999 with the mission to design and develop a mode of transportation that could answer the global need for a heavy lift, fuel-efficient, long distance transport, but without the need for billion-dollar infrastructures such as highways, railways and waterways. The company vision, relentless effort and drive have produced a revolutionary type of hybrid cargo aircraft, which has been christened the Dynalifter®. Robert has a degree in avionics and has managed many businesses. He owns the patent on the unique structure for the Dynalifter Aircraft and currently has test flight program scheduled for late summer of 2012.
